A: The mdfiles are a proprietary extension. They're an extension to the MP3 file format which is a widely used audio file format, and you're trying to mount (read) a proprietary file format, which is usually only readable by its' creator. If you want to be able to read.mdf files, you'll need to know the format and be able to open it, and you might need to find software to convert the file to something you can read. Q: Where do I find code to insert html5 tag on different pages of my web site I'm completely clueless. Here is a scenario: At the top of my page I have a div tag and next to this div tag is a button tag. I want to put some of the code below in that button tag and in the div tag. How can I do that? LEARN A: Insert at the document level LEARN using your current html markup LEARN
