Garageband For Ipad Cracked Ipa

Hello, last night I downloaded the latest build of iPhone 5.2.2. This morning I upgraded and I noticed that Garage Band had not been updated. Then I noticed that Apple had released a new version of the Garage Band app, but it was on the App Store for free. I downloaded it right away and it updated fine. So it seems Apple fixed their app. That said, when I try to make a song on the app, all I hear is a short drum hit and then silence. I'm using the same exact iPod touch (iOS 6.1) as I had before. I've already tried rebooting and restoring the phone, and as far as I can tell I'm updating to the latest software. Has anyone else had the same issue as I'm having? NOTE: To use Guitar Pro 6 with the built-in apps, you need to use Apple's 32-bit download, and do NOT need a normal 64-bit download. If anyone has any additional ideas about why this might be happening, that would be very helpful. I'm not sure whether or not to leave any details out, as I don't know if it would impact future readers.

Q: Trouble with CLLocationManager using location updates in background only mode I have been struggling with this question for some time now. I got the location updates working in background only mode, but everytime that app enters active mode the location services stop. I have read through the apple docs and all similar questions here, and I am doing everything in the right way. So I have a notification observer which is called in the - (void)applicationDidBecomeActive:(UIApplication *)application {

[[NSNotificationCenter defaultCenter] addObserver:self selector:@selector(locationServicesStartedUpdating) name:UIApplicationDidBecomeActiveNotification object:nil]; startLocationUpdatesInForeground = NO; locationManager.desiredAccuracy = kCLLocationAccuracyBestForNavigation; locationManager.pausesLocationUpdatesAutomatically = NO; } - (void)locationServicesStartedUpdating{ //Start watch startLocationUpdatesInForeground = YES;
locationManager.distanceFilter = 100; e79caf774b
