school division says that a 2016 court ruling granted it the right to apply for a waiver from certain state laws. The state says that the waiver allows for a higher than normal level of flexibility in how the education budget is spent. Back in January, Massachusetts Attorney General Maura Healey sent a letter to state Senator Don Humason, who chairs the Education Committee, saying that state law requires the school division to submit a request for a waiver from the State Board of Education by April 1st. Healey's office says that the waiver allows for a higher than normal level of flexibility in how the education budget is spent. School officials say that they simply don't have the money to fund schools the way the state wishes. "The one thing that is that boggled my mind is the source of the funds, why they don't have it," said Joe Neibert, Jr., school division finance manager. "They're drawing that money on a regular basis. I d0c515b9f4

Phospholipase C (PLC) is a key enzyme involved in the generation of intracellular second messengers and is activated by receptor, guanine nucleotide, and growth factor regulatory proteins. In this study we characterized the expression of PLC gamma1 mRNA splice variants in rat kidney and brain. Two closely related cDNA clones, cRNKb, an expression clone encoding the full length of PLC gamma1, and cRNKA, a clone encoding a truncated form lacking the carboxyl terminal membrane anchor domain, were used in a reverse transcription-polymerase chain reaction (RT-PCR) assay. In kidney, RT-PCR assay of total RNA from whole rat brain and brain cortex showed the presence of cRNKb and cRNKA, whereas in the brainstem cRNKA was expressed but cRNKb was not. When restricted PCR experiments were carried out, strong expression of cRNKb was detected in the kidney cortex, cerebellum, and dorsal hippocampus, but not in the brainstem. Strong expression of cRNKA was detected only in the kidney cortex and cerebellum. Our results indicate a differential expression of P
