released by rapper asap ferg, his selection of new level shows a distinctly different side to him, as he crafts his own collection of immersive tracks, that embraces his deep, bubbling roots as a genuine old school street hustler. it must be said that this is fairly evident in his work with future, as he was already a revered emcee when it came out that he had directed a video for future. this was no surprise however, as ferg has always been a creative hustler, and could perhaps be classified as a yoooper. the standout on this new rap release is ferg's iconic voice, as he spits his ever changing flow over a rhythmically magnificent production. this is a track that the masses will get down with for a long time, as it utilises a distinctly minimalistic build up, with a bassline that is void of any clutter. the production also takes a more ambient stance in it's use of space, which is where the constant change of the music comes in, which can leave the listener somewhat engrossed, knowing that he or she will never be able to predict what's going to come next. with its impressive cast of collaborators and unique visual, the video takes a back seat to the real star of the show: the song. and while its two singles have been solid contributions to the asap rocky catalog, it is the breathtaking new level remix that finally legitimises its success. with this track, i have had the pleasure of bringing a part of harlem to life. watching the video was like going back in time and ive been in a nostalgic mood since watching it, ferg added. i couldn't be happier with the finished product, ferg said.
