HTML Notes is a tool that offers a user-friendly environment for editing text and HTML code. It can be used by people with little experience in HTML webdesign, since it gives them a helping hand in this matter. The interface of the application is clean and intuitive, consisting of a familiar window, where you can write code from scratch as well as use one of the few templates provided by the tool. HTML Notes supports syntax highlighting and allows you to use regular expressions as well as a search and replace function when dealing with large amounts of data. Furthermore, the app bundles a quick formatting tool for inserting buttons, and you only need to input the button display, hint and insert text. It is possible to enable word wrap or read-only mode, insert various HTML tags (e.g. header, body, form data, links, color change), modify font properties, customize the toolbars, set bookmarks, count characters, and switch to a different syntax type (e.g. Pascal, C/C++), among other options. HTML Notes is very light on the system resources, using a minimal amount of CPU and system memory. It has a good response time and works well, without causing the operating system to hang, crash or pop up error dialogs; we have not come across any issues throughout our tests. Although it has not been updated for a very long time, HTML Notes provides users with simple tools for editing HTML code. Features:

The new client will load automatically, if your connection is faster than 5mbps. If you don't want to load the client, you can choose it in the options section. The new client will load for a couple of seconds, and will be stored locally. The old client won't be needed anymore. Last but not least we have made some changes to the Multiplayer system.
